PRICE TWO CENTS

A & S Candidates To Visit Dawson

To Present Platforms at Special Meet

By DAN KINGSTONE

Dawson students will have an opportunity to hear the S.E.C. candidates from the faculties of Arts and Science and Architecture tonight at 8.00 p.m. in T-1.

The candidates will meet Dick Messier, McGill Arts and Science president, at the McGill Union at 6.45 p.m. and from there proceed by bus to Dawson where arrangements have been made with Cyse Rosen, president of the Dawson Arts and Science Society, for them to meet the Dawsonites.

At a meeting to be chaired by Rosen, each candidate will speak approximately four minutes. In this allotted time, they will have the opportunity of presenting their election platforms and generally making themselves known to the students.

The purpose of this trip is to allow the Dawsonites, who are members of the McGill Undergraduate Societies, to become acquainted with the candidates for whom they will vote later on. As this probably will be the only time these candidates will make such a trip, the students concerned are expected to attend this meeting in full force.

The candidates making the trip are the following from Arts and Science: Perry Black, Emily Hick, Nick Vlahos, Doug Campbell, Abe Gani, Marilyn Goldman, and Nils Nielson, and W. G. Bryson and Ken Carruthers from Architecture.

As Boris Gardavsky, the Engineering candidate was elected by acclamation, it will not be necessary for him to make the trip, it was explained.

The voting for all faculties both at McGill and Dawson is December 7.

Grads Meet Plans Dance For Dec. 16

The report of the committee enquiring into the state of relations between the Post-graduate Students' Society and the numerous undergraduate organizations on the campus will be made public at the next post-graduates' meeting, in January, it was announced Friday.

The announcement was made at the monthly meeting of the society, which was held in the Union, under the chairmanship of Donald Vince, president.

The Christmas dance is to be held on December 16 in the Union Ballroom, commencing at 9 p.m., and dress is to be optional. Tickets, at the price of $1.50 per couple, are on sale from today until the night of the dance.

Copy Boy Wanted For Dawson News

Once again The Daily needs assistance in getting stories on Dawson College events in to Montreal, the managing board announced last night. Coverage of Dawson has been difficult from the start of the year for the afternoon bus which was used last year was discontinued.

A volunteer was found to carry copy for awhile, but he has now found he cannot continue this job. The managing board therefore requests anyone who travels back and forth regularly between Dawson and Montreal and who is willing to carry the copy to contact Hal Baer, editor in charge of the Dawson office of The Daily, or Allister Catterston, assistant editor. The Daily's Dawson office is on the second floor of Dawson Hall.

Engineering Candidates Speak Today

The Speakers Forum, being held today at 1 p.m. in room 33 of the Engineering Building, will feature, besides the main speaker, the four candidates for the Class presidency.

Fourth year Engineers will go to the polls this Wednesday to elect for their president one of the following: Louis Orban, Electrical; John Newman, Civil; Colin McCullum, Mechanical; Cyril Beibler, Civil.

This is the only permanent position to be held by a member of the graduating class. The class president will have four main responsibilities: to act as a liaison between the graduates society and class members; to chair the Engineering banquet at the end of the year; to be a nucleus of information regarding fellow classmates; have the responsibility to call reunions, which, under the present plan will be held every five years.

the loan of tree lights for one night. The Union is entirely A.C. so no D.C. lights would be of any use.

Caro Rigby, treasurer, announced that a "date bureau" is to be set up as in other years — person to call and phone number will be announced later. The names of the patrons for the dance are yet to be released.

The inter-departmental dinners are, with the consent of the members present, to commence sometime in the last two weeks of January. A suggestion was made that a cocktail party be held prior to the first dinner, if finances permitted. Industrial Foods has agreed to cater — a steak dinner at reasonable cost.

TICKETS AVAILABLE

After noon today, students' tickets will be available at the Union Tuck Shop for the all-Chopin recital Wednesday given by Paul Lozonnet.

Imperialism Is Beneficial To Colonies, Society Told

'Mutual benefit is derived by both Imperialist powers and their colonies', was the view of Mr. Hereward Senior, addressing the West Indian Society on Friday night. The speaker maintained that there is a desirable development towards industrialisation in primitive societies, a development rendered much less painful by the importing of foreign capital and rule by an advanced power during the transition period.

Great Britain was cited as an instance of a country which had to progress under the firm control of a King, to preserve the essential civil peace and security against invaders necessary for unification.

Capital, that is, accumulated labor, the means to the end of development, may either be imported or squeezed from the inhabitants themselves. The first way, the Imperialist, was held by the speaker to reduce suffering, to benefit colony and home country, while allowing a certain amount of civil liberty. It is wrong to contrast the liberties held by citizens of developed countries with those in colonies, for these colonies are at a stage comparable to the Stone and Middle Ages.

The alternative, the communist method, that of squeezing capital from the labor available, is much less efficient and allows no freedom at all.

The Nationalists' tenets against Imperialism, self-determination and national unity are useful only so long as they are constructive. If the principle of self-determination were carried to logical conclusions, in Ireland it would apply to the Catholic minority in Ulster, yet in the Catholic districts themselves there would be Protestant minorities.

In summing up his political interpretation of history, Mr. Senior affirmed that neither benevolence nor exploitation were the results of Imperialism. Russian Communism, straying from the avowed intention of the world revolution and liberation of the 1919 International, is now but an illegitimate monarchy, pursuing its imperialistic aspirations through unscrupulous sabotage of governments in suitable countries, in fact imposing the restrictive disadvantages of Imperialism, without having the capital to provide the compensatory material advantages.

Press Releases Need Presidential Review

A motion requiring that reports on meetings of the Students Executive Council for publication in The McGill Daily must be presented to the president of the Students Society was passed at the last meeting of the S.E.C.

Moved by Harold Corrigan, chairman of the finance committee, and seconded by Mrs. Betty Sinclair, Arts and Science representative on the council, the wording of the motion as obtained from secretary-treasurer Ralph Shackell was as follows: "That the president of the Students Society have presented to him all press releases for publication in The McGill Daily regarding Students Executive Council Meetings as a matter of courtesy."

This motion apparently came as a result of a motion passed at the previous meeting of the S.E.C. (which was the second meeting open to the general student body) that all S.E.C. meetings be open to reporters of The McGill Daily. That motion was presented by Clyde Kennedy, editor-in-chief of The Daily, and seconded by Paul McDonald, Law representative.

The motion allowing reporters to S.E.C. meetings passed by a narrow 5-5 vote and neither Corrigan nor Mrs. Sinclair was present during the voting.

Commenting on the new motion requiring reports to be shown to the president of the S.E.C., the managing board of The Daily declared: "We sincerely hope the council will reconsider this motion at its next meeting. It appears to indicate a lack of confidence in The Daily staff. Reporters have done an excellent job in deciding what is fit and what is not fit for publication. Furthermore, all reports on the S.E.C. must go to a senior editor and then to a member of the managing board before publication."

5 Professors Attend Second Informal 'Tea'

More than fifty people attended the second Professors' Tea held yesterday afternoon in the Reading Room of the Union. The tea gave students an opportunity to meet various members of the staff in a friendly and informal atmosphere.

Among those present were D. N. Fieldhouse, Dean of the Faculty of Arts and Science, Dr. Duthie of the English Department, Professor Launay of the Department of Romance Languages, Dr. Watkins, professor of Political Science, and Monsieur Rigaud who recently arrived from Paris to give instructions in phonetics.

Coffee, cakes, and sandwiches were available for all who attended and the Tea resulted in a friendly afternoon of informal discussion. Professors and students mingled freely and talked over their problems and mutual interests.

Jacqueline Beaudoin and Letitia Artola were in charge of the Tea and both expressed pleasure with the large number in attendance. They said that more such teas were being planned for early next year.

Prof. Hare Tells About Changes in England

In an address delivered to the members of the Newman Club at McGill University following one of their Regular Meetings Professor F. Kenneth Hare, of the Dept. of Geography, outlined the various changes he noted in his native England on his recent visit.

Stating that when he left Canada he was "prepared by newspaper articles to find a country in which conditions were abnormally difficult for the working class he was surprised to find that the spending money of the population had increased and that at the same time the workers were doing less for their money. There was an absence of poverty and production."

Also noted said Professor Hare, "was that the relations between the various classes were slowly being undermined by the breaking up, for various reasons, of the great estates which since the early days had been so much a part of the history and landscape of England."

Literature Movement Is Willoughby's Subject

"Classicism and Romanticism, a Re-examination," is the title of a lecture to be given at 12 noon today in Moyse Hall by Prof. L. A. Willoughby, professor of German, at the University of London, England, the German Department announced.

It is believed the lecture subject chosen will attract all students interested in literature, as Prof. Willoughby, now a visiting professor at Toronto, will consider the Romantic and Classical schools of thought in England and France as well as in Germany.

Editor of "German Life and Letters," Prof. Willoughby is also the author of several books on literary movements in Germany from the Romantic movement onwards.

McGill Debating Team Gains Victory Over Osgoode Hall

By EDDIE CAPLANSKY

McGill's crack debating duo of Ted Hugessen and Isadore Rosenfeld added another victory to their impressive list of wins when they successfully attacked the resolution Resolved, that the Western Nations Give the Utmost Military and Economic Aid to the Present Government of Yugoslavia, in a debate last Saturday night against Osgoode Hall, the Law Faculty at the University of Toronto.

Bill Archer, first speaker for the affirmative, demanded that the benefits of the Marshall Plan be given to Marshal Tito's Government as a tactical means to exploit the schism in the Iron Curtain—a definite advantage for the Western powers, which must be exploited, regardless of the fact that Tito's ideology is not what the West would wish it to be. But "giving aid does not mean approval of his police state," Mr. Archer cited the case of Portugal, which is a police state of the same type as Yugoslavia, yet she is in the U.N. and enjoys fully the advantages of the Marshall Plan. "Let us give without demanding servility," said the speaker, pointing out that this was the exact policy that Russia was following in her relations with the satellite countries, and is the motive of Tito's break with the Kremlin.

Concluding, Archer said that Tito

Election Rally Today in RVC Union Lounge

McGill's co-eds will have an opportunity to hear their candidate for office in this Wednesday's election at the election rally this afternoon at 4.30 p.m. in the Women's Union Lounge.

The election rally, a regular occurrence before every election, will present the candidates for the vice-presidency of the Women's Union and for the member-at-large for second and third year. The member-at-large from first year was elected by acclamation. She is Haldis Jorgenson.

Chaired by Kayo Little, president of the Women's Union, the meeting will hear from five candidates running for the two positions. They are Jane Brencley, Pat Carson, and Maureen Peckham, running for the vice-presidency of the Women's Union, and Margaret Davidson and Lynda Palmer contesting the post of member-at-large from second and third year.

Book Review Tops Hillel Book Week

Dr. Rachel Wasserman, Assistant Professor of English at Sir George Williams College, will review Arthur Koestler's latest novel, "Promise and Fulfillment" at Hillel House on Wednesday, Dec. 7, at 8.15 p.m. Her review will highlight activities inaugurating Hillel Book Week, an annual activity designed to stimulate interest in Jewish books, art and literature.

"Promise and Fulfillment" is the latest statement by Arthur Koestler of his opinions regarding Israel and its relations to world Jewry. His thoughts on this grave matter have aroused great controversy and heated debate among book reviewers of various magazines and newspapers. His views on Jewry outside of Israel are especially provocative.

After Dr. Wasserman's review, an open discussion will follow. A counter will be open to sell important Jewish books to those attending.

Opening Hillel Book Week will be a debate on the topic: "Resolved that minorities should exercise censorship over books and films." Gerald Charness and Leo Stern will defend the resolution, while Earl Schwartz and Harold Reiter will uphold the negative. This debate will get underway at 1 p.m. on Tuesday, Dec. 6, in the Hillel lounge.

Newman Club Sponsors Talk On Christians

Father Gerald MacGuigan, professor of English Literature at Loyola College and a lecturer at the Thomas More Institute for Adult Education, will be the speaker tonight at 8.30 p.m. at the first of a series of three lectures on Christianity sponsored by the Newman Club at McGill University.

These talks, to be given on Monday nights in the Union Ballroom,

Father MacGuigan who will address Newman Club tonight at 8.30. Father MacGuigan is the first of a series of lecturers to speak weekly at this time on the topic "Christianity in the Heart."

are open to all and will be "Christianity in the Heart" in which Father MacGuigan will deal with personal religion. He will explain the foundation of religion and discuss the modern militant attacks on same, such as the philosophy in back of Marxism, as well as the various personal concepts of religion.

A question period will follow the lecture.

Frosh to Hold Party In Union on Dec. 9

A dance and party for first year Arts and Science students will be held in the McGill Union on Friday, Dec. 9, from 7.30-12.00 p.m.

Chairman Marv Gameroff, wishes to stress that the party is a stag affair and he urges all frosh to attend. "This will be an informal get-together," he stated, "and I can readily assure an interesting and enjoyable time for all who attend."

This get-together is the first of a series. The plan is that every second week one of the class executives will have a similar party for the students in it's year. The party on Friday is being sponsored and arranged by the first year executive under the chairmanship of Marv Gameroff.

Daily Staff Meeting At 1 p.m. Today

There will be a meeting of all Daily staffers of staff writer rank and above in the New Room of the Union at one o'clock today. It is extremely important that all staffers within that category attend this conference. Several current problems will be discussed and The Daily's policy with respect to them will be guided by this conference.

'City Slickers' Are Invited To Dawson

Friday evening, Dec. 9, at 8 p.m., Dawson College will hold a dance in its massive gymnasium. The price for "home town boys" (Dawsonites) will be 75 cents, and for "city slickers" $1.00. The tickets will be on sale at R.V.C. and the Union.

For the women who wish to attend, there will be busses leaving R. V. C. and Roddick Gates between 6.45 and 7.00 p.m. The busses will leave Dawson at midnight, going directly to Sherbrooke St. W., Park Ave., and R.V.C.

Despite the fact that girls have been invited from Plattsburg State Teachers College, Sir George Williams College, and Marianopolis College, it is hoped that at least 200 McGill Girls will turn out.

Previous to the dance, a floor hockey game will be held between the McGill Moyse Boys and the cream of Dawson's floor hockey crop. At the end of the game, Dr. Hatcher will present the coveted C. J. Quince Memorial "Bowl of Contentment" to the winners of Dawson's Intra-Mural Floor Hockey League, which is under the management of Bill Magyar.

As this will probably be the last dance at Dawson before Christmas, it is hoped that every Dawsonite, and as many girls from McGill as possible, will attend to make the dance a success.

Applications Taken For Foreign Service

Ottawa — (Special) — The Civil Service Commission has announced a competition for Foreign Service Officers, Grades 1 and 2, in the Department of External Affairs. The salary range for the Grade 1 class is $2,800-3,780 and for Grade 2, $3,480-4,080.

Candidates must be university graduates or in their final year. A preference is expressed for graduates in history, economics, law, political science or geography. The closing date for receipt of applications is December 10, 1949.

Complete details may be found in the poster announcement of the competition now on display at universities, post offices, public libraries, and elsewhere. It is likely that the number of appointees will be smaller than last year.

Georgian Staff Fails to Win Confidence of Student Council

Following upon a motion to given the E.F.S.S. before December withdraw financial support for The Georgian, student newspaper at Sir George Williams College, by the evening division of the college's complicated student government and a subsequent threat to resign made by staffers of the weekly newspaper, the Student Council met Friday to pass a motion of confidence in The Georgian's editorial board.

The rumpus started when the managing board of The Georgian refused to cancel a party on order of the executive of the Evening Faculty Students Society. This body pointed out that to hold the party the same night as a college dance was contrary to the night group's constitution. The editor-in-chief, Chris McFarland, replied that plans had gone too far to cancel the party and that the editorial board had not been aware of the constitutional bar against the paper party being held at that particular time. The executive of the E.F.S.S. then passed a motion to withdraw financial support from The Georgian unless an explanation were

The Students Council also passed the following motion: "that the Students Council send a letter to the E.F.S.S. requesting them to recognize, in print or otherwise, that the incident which occurred was unfortunate and that hereinafter all such matters would be submitted to the E.F.S.S. before December 6." Editor McFarland told The Daily Wednesday night he felt that although the issue itself was "petty," the E.F.S.S. could use the threat of withdrawal of financial support to prevent the publication of stories which the E.F.S.S. objected to. A special issue of The Georgian was put out Wednesday night outlining the situation.

LUSH YEARS HAVE PASSED

The engineering representative-elect, in a Student Forum article, draws attention once again to the precarious financial position of the Students Society.

He agrees with a previous contributor to the Forum that the band has shown tremendous improvement and has done its bit to boost the spirit at football games and pep rallies. But he points out that as much as the Students Executive Council might want to build a concert band upon this improved group, it is unable to do so because of the financial situation.

In the first place, as we have said before, we believe the responsibility for financing a band which is used solely for athletic events to be that of the Students Athletic Council. This means, of course, since finances are under its control, that the Athletic Board itself is the proper authority to finance the band.

We are sure that everyone would like to see a fine concert band at McGill, but to put it bluntly the gravy train has stopped. Every large student activity has to take a cut in its budget and this downward trend in budgets will have to continue as enrollment drops. Unfortunately the thinking of some students, as far as finances are concerned, has not kept pace with the changing conditions.

During the lush years of high enrollment many new clubs and many new activities sprang up. At the present time there are one hundred and ten organizations on the campus. Though we realize the suggestions will be unpopular, we think there are far too many extra-curricular activities at the present time. Rather than stipport new projects, we would be inclined to favor a reduction in the drain on the average student's time and interest. We are even beginning to wonder if there is a place for a daily newspaper where the students have to take a full course as well as turn out a daily newspaper — something only two universities in Canada feel they can do—which is one of probably only two failures on the continent that do not use wire services such as United Press to keep a daily in existence.

Attendance at campus events has made it quite clear that some activities are too elaborate. This is not something peculiar to McGill. The general trend across the country is one of financial failure for events which are as elaborate as the lush years immediately following the war. Many club officials have not faced the changed conditions honestly.

We can only repeat a section of the report presented by the chairman of the S. E. C. finance committee: "The present surplus is equal to less than one month's expenditure of the Students Executive Council (based on nine months operation) and should not be impaired any further. All future expenditures, until the surplus is increased sufficiently, should be made from current revenue. If this policy is not adhered to by this council, and by the new members to be elected next Christmas, the S. E. C. might find itself in a difficult financial position."

It is, we believe, a time to reduce student activities rather than to increase them.

S.E.C. NOT A MISER

In answer to Jim Conrad's demand for an improved band in last Thursday's issue of the McGill Daily, I can only agree fully with him. The McGill band for the first time has shown life and vitality and has given an invaluable boost to student spirit at our football games and football rallies. The credit for this goes to Morley Calvert, to the hard working band members and to Mike Peers.

Now a "bigger and better" band, Jim says, must have further financial backing from the S. E. C. and he challenges the candidates in the coming elections to state their stand on this. Unfortunately, Jim, like many other students, is unaware of the financial standing of the S. E. C. For The Students' Council is not a financial miser, doling out pennies to indigent clubs from a vast reservoir of money. On the contrary, this year has seen the S. E. C. draw their budgets as fine as possible and still face the prospect of a possible deficit at the end of the year.

The problem of supporting a "bigger and better" band or a concert band would simply mean reducing the allotments to other clubs and societies. There simply is not enough money to go around.

Shall we reduce the budget of the McGill

Daily? Shall we take money from the McGill Debating Society? Shall we reduce the value of the McGill Annual or the quality of the Red & White Revue and still charge the students the same amount? These are frank questions and should be directed towards the students.

Are the students willing to pay for the activities they want? This is the basic question and it is the only one that faces the facts. Instead of applying pressure to candidates running in the coming elections, Jim would have been wiser to direct his question to the students at large. It is they who must decide.

There are only two ways to make up a shortage in funds. One way is to get more students to participate in the present student activities so that their efforts would reduce the expenses in these activities and leave more money for somewhere else, like the McGill band. The only other way is by charging the students for the activities they want through an increase in fees, or cutting down somewhere on the present clubs and societies.

If the students want a "bigger and better" band, it is up to them to decide how they want to finance it.

Boris Gardavsky,
3rd Year Engineering.

Letters to The Editor

TICKET EXPLANATION

Editor, McGill Daily.

In his well written column "In the Spotlight" of Tuesday, Nov. 28th, your Assistant Sports Editor stated that, and I quote, "One of the nearest takes of the season was the quarter charge the Athletics Council put on the hockey game with one day's notice." I wish to draw Mr. Robb's attention to item 5, page 304, of the General Information Bulletin put out by the University. This article, under the heading "Athletics, Physical Education and Recreation" states, among other things, that students' season tickets for the home games of the senior football team cost $1.50, and students' tickets for the home games of the senior hockey team cost 25 cents each.

Might I suggest to Mr. Robb that on future occasions he check on such as the above before submitting his article for print? A phone call to the Athletics Office would have taken less than two minutes of his time.

I am sincere in my thanks to Mr. Robb for his constructive criticism of the way in which the sale of tickets was handled last Friday night. But the Forum officials will not permit the advance sale of tickets on the campus for the simple reason that it is against their general policy to do so. However, these same officials are sympathetic to suggestions made by the Athletics Office and I believe that I am quite safe in saying that the sale of tickets will be handled in more expedient manner at the next game.

Allan J. Buttle,
Chairman, Students' Athletic Council.

Editor's Note: Last year the home games of the senior hockey team were free. Many students wondered about the new policy of charging for these games. Mr. Robb points out that few students were likely to notice the change as indicated in the "General Information Bulletin." We hope that Mr. Robb's comments will result in better ticket facilities for students.

THE CARTOONIST'S LIFE

Behind the Scenes In the English Department

By LARRY CAPELOVITCH

"We have our irons in many fires," Dr. Files replied in answer to a query on what the English Department was doing apart from their lectures and classes.

The main general interest is a study of the relationship between literature and life, and literary history as part of the history of the world. Many of the staff are concerned with the drama as a means of expression and as an evening's entertainment. The evolution of language is fascinating to others. All the members of the department help to encourage the creative work of students.

Most members of the staff have their particular interests as well. Dr. Duthie, working as an editor, is attempting to publish the most accurate texts possible of Shakespeare's plays. His edition of King Lear has been published and he is now working on another. Dr. Duthie is also preparing a general criticism of Shakespeare.

The skeptical and scientific thought of the seventeenth century constitute Professor Sprott's primary field of interest, and he is engaged in research along these lines. Professor Phelps is particularly concerned with the origin and development of Canadian literature. Dr. Hemlow is doing very interesting and important research in the writings of Fanny Burney.

The literature of the Utopias and of imaginary voyages growing out of man's search for a perfect commonwealth and his exploration of the unknown, and certain Renaissance texts have been studied by Professor Noad. He is now working on a Latin text by Bruni.

Professor Hall is preparing a textbook on the art of dramatic production.

"The Invisible Gate," Professor Beresford-Howe's third novel, has been published recently and has received very favorable criticism. Professor Anderson, one of the leading poets of Canada, has another volume of poetry in preparation.

Dr. Files is interested in the influence of Boehme, the German theosopher, on eighteenth century thought. "A Study of Boehme," he said, "throws an unusual light on the age of Reason, and on the startling poetry and mythology of William Blake."

An enormous territory is being covered by post-graduate students whose theses are leading them into research in different fields of literature, and who are re-appraising much available literary information.

More creative writing is now encouraged in the English department. Under certain conditions novels can be presented for the Master's degree in English and some are now in preparation. Miss Peggy Goodin has recently completed a novel which will be published in mid-winter.

When pressed for information on the problems facing writers at the university and on the problems of the market, Dr. Files stated that this and related topics would be dealt with in his talk to the Literary Society tonight. With a smile, he said he didn't want to see himself scooped.

Leading Roles in Pirandello Play

Nanette Bishopric and Hugh Taschereau will play the leading roles in the forthcoming production of Pirandello's, "As You Desire Me," directed by Professor Elmer Hall. It will be presented in Moyle Hall on December 16, for one performance only, by the English Department of the University.

Both Bishopric and Taschereau have had previous stage experience. Nan has appeared in a past production of the Red and White Review. This will be her first appearance in a straight dramatic role.

Born in Regina, Nan travelled through the States and Canada in her early years and now resides in Quebec City. She is in her third year Arts, majoring in Psychology and Sociology, and plans to go to the University of Chicago for post-graduate work in Sociology.

Hugh Taschereau's dramatic career has included organizing variety shows during the war and later singing professionally as a night club vocalist. At McGill he has carried leading roles in several University productions, among them "You Can't Take It With You" at Dawson, "The Beautiful People," "The Beggar's Opera," and "She Stoops To Conquer."

Hugh has taken an active part in the Radio Workshop and the Red and White Review. In the summer of 1947 he appeared on Broadway in "Annie Get Your Gun." He has also worked in productions with the M.R.T. During the past summer he was with the Peterborough Summer Company and appeared in six of their eleven productions. At the same time he was Business and Front of the House Manager throughout the season.

After completing his course of study at McGill, Hugh intends to return to Toronto to make a career in theatre.

The cast also includes: Charles McHale, Nicholas Vlahos, Elizabeth Barry, John Hall, Madeleine Bird, Rose Apostolatos, and George Leukides.

"As You Desire Me" can be described as an intellectual mystery romance set against the continental background of Vienna and Italy. Tickets for the one performance will be $1.00 (tax included) and can be obtained at the door the night of the performance. However, choice seats can be had now by addressing reservations (enclosing remittance and a stamped, self-addressed envelope) to Mr. Hall, at the Arts Building, McGill University.

Students of the McGill Dramatic Production Courses are handling all phases of the production, while sets are by Frank Ford, make-up and costuming by Althea Douglas. Irving Simms is stage manager. Curtain time is 8.30 p.m.

Sorel Ballet

Montreal balletomanes will be happy to know that Madame Sorel's well-known troupe has been invited to New York to give a performance of several original Canadian works. This is the first time in Canadian ballet history that a company has been invited to the famed city of the theatre. Lack of funds to equip the troupe with the necessary equipment has hampered the project this far. In order to aid Madame Sorel, Joy Thompson of the Canadian Art Theatre is sponsoring a "Ballet Evening at which famous stars of the Sadler Wells Ballet will be present."

The "Ballet Evening" will be held in the Normandie Roof of the Mount Royal Hotel, on December 9 at 4.30 p.m. Extracts from two original Canadian Ballets — Mea Culpa, and Gaspasien — will be given. There is a minimum charge of two dollars, the proceeds of the evening to be given to the Sorel Troupe.

Reservations may be had by phoning EL 1668.

Conservatorium Opening Features Recital

The flute has been held by some to be an instrument too powerful in its effect on the emotions. Such is certainly not the case in the Mozart C Major quartet. Here beneath the light-hearted appearance, beneath the gaily of Mozart, apparently undarkened by thought or mood of pain or doubt, behind this exterior there is a seeming paradox, mysticism as well as emotionalism, a paradox of a type which only very few have been able to conceive of and represent, as indeed Goethe did.

Now, if there is in the quartet itself this remarkable blending of opposites, the players require a less contradictory but equally essential blending of their elements. The quartet of students, who played the work at the opening of the new conservatorium, have yet to reach an harmonious blending of the functions of their instruments, to realize in their playing of this quartet the entity it is. The flute remained quite separated from its partners; the cello and viola failed to assume an important role at all. The andantino may be said to have come to an undignified halt after a series of pauses.

Clarkson Hoopsters Sink Redmen 70-46 for 2nd Loss

In the Spotlight

By Jim Robb

U. of M. and the several hundred McGill supporters were to say the least slightly surprised at the showing of McGill's hockey Redmen Saturday night. The top-seeded Carabins were extended to come through with the victory.

The game showed that the Campbell cause is not entirely without hope. In fact if the team had had conditioning enough to go the whole game the way they went in the first period, the Inter-collegiate hockey picture might look somewhat different.

Even as it was Saturday's game sent the railbirds home singing a different tune, not quite as ready to count McGill out of contention as after the loss to Varsity. The fact remains that McGill has a long way to go before they hit their top form. Three of the players in Saturday night's tilt at Verdun had been on skates only twice this season, and not one of the forward combos had played as a unit in a game before. Coach Campbell is also still in the experimental stage with many of his players.

Let's not take any credit away from Art Therrien's men. The University of Montreal squad have had many of the same practice difficulties as McGill. Les Carabins have last year's line-up almost intact, bringing back all-stars Charney, Emblem, Garlepy, and Lapierre plus promising new-comers Audel, Morgeon and Perrault.

NEXT TIME
We can say positively that Therrien will meet a tougher squad next time he plays the Redmen on Jan. 20, 1950. By that time Campbell's squad ought to be in tip-top shape. Plans include a trip into the states early in the new year to play College and local teams in and around New York.

The team will also have two more Intercollegiate tussles those with Queen's, before meeting the blue and gold again. Plus a Christmas week game against one of the top Collegiate teams south of the border the Boston College crew.

Question addressed to McGill's Taylor.

Toronto Polo Squad Near Collegiate Title

By IRWIN GUTTMAN
Toronto Varsity's Water Polo team are twenty minutes away from annexing the Intercollegiate Championship of 1949. Defeating the McGill Redmen here last Saturday 6-2, they left the McGillians behind the old eight ball, as they are now forced to invade Toronto and outscore Toronto by five goals. Somehow, on remembering the size of the Hart House Pool, and the McGill players, in the second half of the game here we are highly impressed by the gargantuan task that faces McGill if they are to take the total point home and home series with Toronto.

Play was just fifty three seconds old when Don Walter of McGill sent a hard rising shot into the short side of the net from what seemed to be an impossible angle, but the shot was just right and McGill led one to nothing. However, Mortimer of Toronto tied the game up at 3:17 of the same quarter. Newman, the Toronto goalie, then made a beautiful hand save on his left off Jim Ross and as the first period ended, Walters and Ross hit the post, the score remaining at one all.

Toronto were quick to strike as the second quarter opened, when Crang rammed a shot past Ballou, sending Toronto ahead two-one and they were never headed after that. Jerry Cooper managed to tie it up at the 1:50 mark, but Toronto were quick to reply as Captain Phil Rosen, who had carried the ball from his defence position into the McGill zone, sunk a nice shot into the top left-hand corner. With but four seconds to go to the half, Larry Rosen, who is Phil's brother, sunk a short left-hand shot into the corner, making the half time score

... CLARKSON

By AL SCHMELTZER

The senior edition of the Red and White basketball squad went down to their second defeat in two days when they lost to the Green and Gold team from Clarkson by the score of 70-46.

This was the first game of the season for the Clarkson quintet, and they were not as powerful as the St. Lawrence team that McGill had played the night before. Clarkson jumped into an early lead and they never relinquished it.

Don Finlayson, 6 foot guard for the Red and White team, was the outstanding man on offense and defence for his squad. He scored a total of 10 points. Next in line for the McGill quintet were Myer Bloom and Sheldon Merling with eight points each.

Outstanding man for the team from Potsdam was Herb Jahn, who scored 19 points. He was one of the few veterans on the squad and he was a constant threat with his brilliant playmaking and shooting. Tom Dulmage with 12 points and Tom Gatta with 11 were the next high scorers for the Green and Gold squad.

Nelligan opened the scoring for the Clarkson quintet and soon the score was 5-0 in favor of the home team. The play saw-sawed back and forth, with the McGill defence being good. Merling was the first man to score for the Redmen when he put in a penalty shot. The score at quarter time was 15-6 in favor of Clarkson.

The Clarkson team put on a new squad at the beginning of the second quarter and McGill scored two quick baskets. Then both teams shots began to click, but when Clarkson's first team came back on, this was changed, as they began to sink their shots in. At half time the score was 32-14 for the home team.

The play at the beginning of the second half was fast and Myer Bloom was the first man to score. Then again Clarkson began to show its power as they scored 12 points, with McGill getting only two of those back. The third quarter ended with Clarkson leading by a score of 51-27.

McGill finally began to show that it could be a basketball team in the fourth quarter. This is when they put on their best display of power during the two games. Except for the dying minutes of the game, the Red and White team completely dominated the play. At one time they had whittled the score down to 62-46, but then they literally fell apart and Clarkson then went on to score eight more points which brought the final score up to 70-46 in favor of the home team.

SUMMARY
McGill: Bloom 8, Edwards, Garbuz 7, Skinner 4, Milburn 4, Merling 8, Endman 4, Finlayson 10, Shea 1, Berger.

Clarkson: Nelligan 8, Jahn 19, Dulmage 12, Siedlecki 9, Gatta 11, Pigliacampi 5, Yuhas, Atkinson 2, Hodge 3, Critelli, Colavito 1, O'Brien, Strangler, Landernon.

Ross Parsons Not Seriously Hurt Saturday

Injuries received by Ross Parsons Saturday night were not serious. In fact there is a good chance the starry winger will be in the line-up when the Redmen travel to Kingston to play Queen's Wednesday night.

Parsons, outstanding rookie with Campbell's squad last year, returned to the team for the first time Saturday night after a knee operation. The operation kept the blonde bombshell out of the first game against U. of T. and away from the early season practices. Late last week however, team physician Dr. Crutchlow pronounced Parsons ready for action. Coach Campbell needing power on the wing sent Ross into action against Les Carabins.

A hefty bodycheck early in the third period put an added strain on the heavily taped knee and it collapsed under Parsons, dropping him to the ice. The doctor says a few days rest ought to put the ailing knee back in shape.

Parsons came to McGill from Montreal West High School. When he was playing for the West end squad he was selected to the Montreal City High School all-stars. He played one year with the McGill Inter, the year they won the Intercollegiate championship and came up to the Senior Redmen at the beginning of last season.

Inter Hoop Squad Bows To Y.M.H.A. by 46-34

By JACK RABINOVITCH

The Red and White Intermediate basketball team fighting all the way bowed to a scrappy Y quintet 46-34 Saturday night at the Y.M.H.A. gym. The Intermediate team, though outplayed, showed that they have the spirit and drive that mark a winning team.

The Y five jumped into an early lead and were never headed from then on. Manny Schacter's boys though playing well, just couldn't seem to dent the twine with consistency. They were clearly out-jumped in the first half, but in the second frame came back to play some heads up ball; unfortunately for only a few minutes. During this period they narrowed the Y lead down to three points, but the Y squad after calling a time-out, which seemed to cool the Red shooting irons, forged ahead, never to be threatened again.

Though down ten points most of the second frame, the McGill quintet kept on fighting all the way and were still going at the final whistle. Godel, Fisher and Morrison played well for the losers, with Siemers being the only one able to score consistently in the first half. Kott, Knobovitch and Goffman were outstanding for the winners.

Varsity Wins Women's Intercollegiate Swim Title

McGill Keeps Pace With Winners Until Last 2 Events

By BARBARA WATSON

The intercollegiate swimming team, in the synchronized duet, title was taken from McGill by the University of Toronto. The meet took place at McMaster College in Hamilton last Saturday night. Varsity took the lead in the first event of the meet, but it was close scoring from then on, right up until the end of the meet. McGill stood one point behind the Blue and White team, which then pulled ahead to win the meet by taking the last two events.

McGill showed their colours very well. They were the defending champions, having won the title last year when the meet was held down here in Montreal. Joan Croll, Joan Mount, and Joan Mingle all swam very well. The first Joan won the fifty yards breast stroke, coming in about ten feet ahead of Toronto's Pat Perin. Joan did the butterfly stroke up and down the pool. Joan Mingle won the 50 yard back, stroking out Toronto's Zina Murray. Joan Mount was second in the free style to Marg Harrington. The three Joans then combined to win the 150 yard medley relay, each one of the girls swimming their own stroke.

A few third places helped add up the McGill points. The only event that did not show any red and white colours in the top three places was the combined single routine and tricks, nevertheless Joan Mingle showed very well in the event. DI Seagram RVC freshette from Waterloo, Ontario, showed in the individual medley, thus gaining a point there, and helping to win another point when the free style relay came in third, only just being out-touched by Queen's. Al-freda Redgeil, Ruth Weisman and Joan Mount were also on this ship at present prices; and, Whereas we recognize that a decent standard of housing is a necessity and not a luxury; therefore:

Be it resolved that the McGill Liberal Club declare itself in favor of the Federal Government

(1) actively taking the lead in public housing projects by adopting measures similar to those taken by the government of the United States of America in establishing the public housing authority; &

(2) establishing a definite standard of minimum requirements of housing with respect to quality, space per occupant and hygiene facilities.

Another misinterpretation we wish to correct is regarding the account given to the construction of new homes this year. F. Hughes did not say that only 20,000 units were completed, but that taking into consideration formations of new families, demolition of old dwellings, and so on, new construction lessened the accumulated shortage by this amount so far this year.

to fundamental errors in the account of last Wednesday's Liberal Club meeting. The head of your story on the front page of Thursday's Daily read "Liberals Say Housing Not Emergency."

In fact the club agreed that the housing crisis is of extreme urgency, but decided to strike out from their housing resolution the words "declare a national emergency" as this wording implies a special doctrine of the B.N.A. Act called the "emergency doctrine," which, following a recent Privy Council decision, is on extremely shaky constitutional grounds.

It was felt that this clause in the resolution would obscure its purpose, which was to press for low cost housing. The text of the resolution, which follows, speaks for itself:

Whereas the current rate of construction of housing units is sufficient only to accommodate formations of new families and is not alleviating the accumulated shortage of dwellings, estimated at half a million in 1945; and

Whereas approximately two-thirds of the population cannot rent new rental units at existing rates and cannot consider home owner-than intellect. Although the quintet of students has far to go to reach a balanced performance, there were some signs of better achievement. Jacob Siskind may be said to have brought out some of the feeling of Schumann with his piano playing, and also served to knit the quintet together to a certain extent. This service rendered by the piano was most necessary, as the cello performance of Robert L'Heureux contributed very little to the rendering of Schumann, while the violin, Sorelle Levitt, was over-dominating, and the viola, Jack Korozinsk, scarcely distinguishable.

This quintet seems not to require the type of self-restraint of the individual performer necessary for the interpretation of the Mozart Quartet. Each has to contribute a flood of expression; and yet the blending of the individuals is just as essential for Schumann as for Mozart.

This lack of unity was seen at its worst in the Beethoven Trio in B flat, carved up as it was between Norah Bannon, Gerald Danovitch, and Robert L'Heureux. The cello was quite lost, and the careless exuberance of the clarinet overpowered.

which to fight the Germans. To let the situation ride is dangerous, for appeasement is very risky in international relations. At present, "Stalin cannot veto Tito." It is up to the Western nations to see that things stay that way.

The final speaker of the evening, Isadore Rosenfeld, summed up the situation by showing that Yugoslavia had not changed her colors now that she is at odds with Moscow. He quoted from the report of the Royal Institute for International Affairs to show that Tito's policy still called for a monolithic party and state, adherence to the teachings of both Marx and Lenin, eventual reconciliation with Russia and no political commitments to the West. The only reason d'être for supporting Tito is the dictates of naked power politics. Also the acceptance of Tito into the Western fold means that Franco Spain must be admitted as well.

McGill was awarded the decision by a 2-1 margin.

Judging the debate were: Hon. Justice George S. Chailles, Mr. Claude Richardson K.C., and Mr. George V. V. Nicholls, editor of the Canadian Bar Review.

Mr. William F. Macklalar, K.C., vice-president of the McGill Graduates Society, was in the chair.

ing in vogue in the first quarter of the century. Unfortunately while times have changed, Mr. Elman has not. His playing is filled with slides, rubatos, and over-phrasing. For all these excesses, his playing, if one is prepared to accept his style, is satisfying, warm and vibrant. Surprisingly enough his performance of a Mozart sonata was the most satisfying on the program.

Student government at Sir George Williams College consists of three main executive bodies. An executive of the Evening Faculty Students Society concerns itself mainly with the affairs of students taking courses in the evenings. An executive of the Students Undergraduate Society handles matters relating mainly to activities of students taking day courses. Each of these bodies has five members on the Students Council which has final control over student affairs in the college. And both the evening and day executives contribute money for the production of The Georgian, which normally appears each Monday.

A special mimeographed sheet was issued Saturday, giving the motions passed by the Students Council Friday.

second period, MacLellan made a lovely save off Flynn, but in falling couldn't clear the puck away from the crease and Charest swooped in and poked the rubber into the net, putting U of M 3-1 ahead at the close of the second period.

The third period was a very ragged affair that saw U of M's superior conditions allow them to control the play. Emblem scored for the Carabins after looping Hotte's rebound over the prostrate MacLellan, while Charest scored his second goal by also looping a rebound over the prostrate McGill goalie.
